

FREEDOM TO CREATE

STONE COURT VILLA

PARADISE VALLEY, ARIZONA

APRIL 2016
BROMBAL MAG #01

IDEA PROJECT REALIZATION

A ten acre desert site that contains two desert washes. Wonderful vistas to both nearby desert mountains and distant peaks. Compromised views to the immediate surrounding neighborhood. Walls are introduced slowly, repetitively....Snake like, moving in and out of the living spaces, blurring boundaries...Containing space, life, courts, water, trees, laughter, thoughts and shadows.

Walls of stacked thick mexican stone, inside and out. Slowly a pattern emerges, shifts and then unwinds. Repetitive, Even – here elongated, there extended, here compressed, subtle variety.

The slicing of stone, the splash of water, the capture of light...the walls exclude what is weak and undesired so that what is vibrant and alive can flourish in peace.

FOUR ELEMENTS AND QUINTESSENCE : A UNIQUE PROJECT

FIRE

Represented by warm colors typical of the Arizona landscape. It is an excellent choice for the location of this masterpiece.

WATER

Symbolized by the pools: the interior is the heart of the structure and the exterior is the frame work.

LAND

An area immense and vast, is the context in which this villa is located

A project designed by the architect Marwan Al - Sayed.

AIR

Re-created by the large OS2 windows. Vast amounts of light are designed to enter and illuminate at any time of day, while providing unobstructed views of the surrounding landscape.

QUITESSENCE

The Brombal windows combine the harmonic fusion of the four natural elements showing passion, craftsmanship and professionalism throughout.

LIFT & SLIDE DOORS

A unique sill and frame were designed to fit the architects request to have the Lift / Slide panels slide over the exterior wall conserving space while allowing complete openness to the outdoors. The main challenge was integrating the frame to allow the panels to pass behind the wall while still engineering the system so weatherproofing and smooth functionality became one in the same.

The end result... doors that operate and perform beautifully.

This is what our clients have come to expect from Brombal. It's our pleasure to provide architects this kind of creative freedom.

TESTIMONIAL

"I had the pleasure of visiting the Brombal factory while in Italy working on a line of furniture. Brombal is a family run operation that has been part of a community and production culture that still runs strong in this part of the world. This personal attention to detail, the culture of collaboration and innovation, the level of design culture and technology and the warmth and personal involvement of the owners contributes to an atmosphere ripe for creativity and problem solving that is rare with other companies in similar industries. The level of Italian design, as exemplified by the Brombal line, and others in the fields of furniture, fashion or automotive design, is unique in the world and provides a level confidence and quality that is unrivaled."
